WALLINGFORD.

On the 10:32 train yesterday Railroad Commissioner Robertson arrived here, and the 11:20 a, m. express stopped here to let off Commissioner Woodruff. A few minutes later a hearing was held on the application of the court of burgenees to the railroad commissioners for the laying of the spur track asked for by R. Wallace & Sons' Manufacturing company. Besides the commissioners there were present F. A. Wallace, Warden Botsford, Burgesses Thomson and Luby, and Attorney Hubbard, the latter representing the borough. The ques tion of the R. Wallace Sons for giving the borough a bond releasing the latter from all responsibility by reason of the track crossing the streets, etc., was discussed and Mr. Wallace agreed to de what was customary and also give bond. Commissioner Woodruff said that as soon as the bond was executed an order would be given to the railroad company to lay the track. The commissioners will also direct the railroad as to the speed of the cars, not over six miles an hour at the crossings, and have a flagman at the crossing. The spur track crosses Frank, Cherry and Clifton streets. The commissioners did not view the layout for the track only by map, as they did not deem it necessary to view the land, as they were familiar with the locality. By the law the railroad commissioners only recognize the borough of Wallingford and the railroad company in the matter.

The petition asking for a sewer in North Main street, from the schoolhouse property to the north line of H. L. Davis' property, which was presented to the board of burgesses, has been with drawn and a new one asking for a sew er from the Central district line to North street, near the watering tank on North Main street, has been presented instead. The petition bears the names of a majority of the property owners along the

HYPERION.

A double bill will be the bill of fare Friday night, when Chapmion James J. Corbett will appear with Robert Gaylor of "Sport McAllister" fame, who is this season presenting a comedy drama by Charles T. Vincent, called "In a Big City." This is practically a story of New York life, taking in from the Battery to Harlem. One of the scenes admits for a boxing contest and Manager William A. Brady induced Mr. Corbett to appear here in the scene He will spar four spirited rounds with Steve O'Donnell, the Australian. This is Mr. Corbett's last appearance in pub-He prior to his battle with Robert Fitzsimmons next October. Mr. Corbett has been in active training in Asbury Park for the past two months and is in the pink of condition, so his numerous admirers will have an opportunity of seeing "Pompadour Jim" in excellent trim, Steve O'Donnell, who has made quite a reputation for himself of late by the easy way in which he put Jake Kilrain to sleep at the Coney Island Athletic club, is matched to fight Peter Maher, the champion heavyweight of Ireland and England, at Dallas the night following the Corbett-Fitzsimmons mill. Sale of seats opens this morning.

It is a second "Charlie's Aunt," which attained such success the past season. It is filled with many amusing situations. "Fred-die," the irrespressible schoolboy, is played by Bert Coote, the well known and popular comdelan, who has gained great success in the title role. It is a funny play and is full of love making and tantallzing mischief. There is a storm of laughter during the entire three acts. The piece has attained great success in London and New York where it was greeted with crowded houses every night.

Many inquiries have been made as to the prices at the Grand Opera house during the coming season and for general information they are now published: Tickets can be bought in advance for the reserved seats at the a three months' trip through Europe. matinees. LAID AT REST.

The Funeral of Mrs. Agnes Forsyth, Widow of Thomas Forsyth. All that was mortal of the late Mrs. Forsyth, widow of the late Thomas Forsyth, who was the founder and the head for many years of the Forsyth Laundry and Dye works of this city, was consigned to mother earth yesterday afternoon. The occasion partook of unusual sadness, her death having occurred so suddenly and unexpectedly on a foreign shore, far away from her nome and most of her kindred, from whom she was separated by the broad Atlantic, and her death having occurred while she was away on a journey to the land where her childhood and girlhood years were spent, the only one of those nearest and dearest who was with her being her daughter, Mrs. Seavey, upon whom devolved the sad errand of bringing the remains across the sea. The remains arrived on the steamer Etruria, and the funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at her late residence on Lombard street, attended by a large concourse of sorrowing friends, who had gathered in token of their deep sympathy for the bereaved family in their loss of one whose life vas so precious to them. The Rev. Mr. Martin officiated in the abrence of Rev.

A MOST TIMELY RESCUE.

Young Mor is Cove Lad Saves the Life of Lady Who Was Drowning.

What would in all probability have proved a loss of life at Morris Cove but for a timely rescue was most fortunately averted through the presence of mind ourteen, young Reverdy Smith, whose father is George W. Smith, the real estate broker, who resides in the new ottage near the Cove erected recently by Jeremiah Smith & Sons' of Oyster Point, whose oyster interests at the Cove Mr. Smith, sr., looks after, As young Mr. Smith was passing recently near the shore of the south part of the Cove he heard shricks for help and rushing to where the sounds seemed to come from he saw a woman struggling in the water and evidently drowning. He rushed into the water, not waiting to divest himself of any of his wearing apparel, and reached the woman and being an expert swimmer and athletic for his years was enabled to bring the half-drowned woman to shore, where she was soon so much recovered as to be able to proceed to per home nearby. She had gone in bathing and unwittingly had got into a deep hole beyond her depth and would have drowned but for young Mr. Smith's most timely and efficient aid. She is living at the Cove at the cot tage of Mr. John Foley, the Grand avenue grocer, assisting Mrs. Foley in the care of the house. Her gratitude was expiressed to Master Smith at the lime of the rescue in words of thanks that but feebly expressed her feelings; and yesterday Master Smith received a liberal gift of money, which the grateful lady was only too happy to bestow upon her brave young friend in further token of her appreciation of his imely aid. Young Mr. Smith is at home on or in the water and few of his years are as skilled and competent in boating or yachting as he. He is a brother o
